You'd think that most companies would be claiming all the R&D tax credits they're entitled to but the majority don't....with an estimated £1 billion of R&D tax relief going unclaimed every year.

The tricky part is understanding the legislation which is why many companies simply don't realise that they qualify. This is where we come in ...

Testimonials

I have recently worked with Andrew Jordan at 360 Accountants on an R&D Tax Relief Project for our company, this was the first time that I had been involved in a project of this nature and the main problem I faced was that I was unsure of how to structure the claim so that when it was submitted it would be successful. Luckily Andrew had been involved in projects of this nature in the past and was able to use his expertise to advise me on all of the relevant points that we should include within the claim. Andrew was able to assist me in identifying relevant costs that we had incurred throughout the project and also map out a project timeline which showed all of the key milestones that we passed along the way.

I am pleased to say that the claim was submitted successfully and we were able to utilise the tax relief and reduce our forthcoming corporation tax liability.

I have been extremely impressed with the whole team at 360 Accountants since they began to act for our company in 2018. Their level of expertise, professionalism and speed of service is always of the highest standard and I look forward to working with them for many years to come.

We always thought that we could save money with the R&D tax relief and were approached by several companies saying they could help us. However, despite providing all of the information required, none of the firms were able to help us so we gave up. As 360 are our accountants and know our company well, they could see where we were spending money or time on R&D projects. They worked very closely with us to ensure anything we could claim for was included.

360 saved us a lot of money, which meant we gained a 2 thirds reduction in our corporation tax bill. We also know exactly what we can and can't claim for going forwards as the process is defined and simple.

We were over the moon with their service.

'Hull Kingston Rovers is not only one of the oldest professional Rugby League clubs, it is a globally recognised brand having won many trophies and famous victories in its 140 year history.

We have invested heavily in training, performance and innovative sports science recently to try and get the most out of our players and coaching staff and when our club accountants 360 suggested we should make a Research and Development claim to HMRC we were only too pleased.

The six figure sum they secured for us recently was a real god send as it came at the start of the Covid-19 crisis when our income had dried up. The process was slick and relatively pain less and I'd encourage all innovative SMEs partaking in research and development to engage with Andy and his team to see whether they qualify for the tax credits available.'
